Climb Aboard

Life is one great voyage and the school is the travel agency that helps plan your trip upon one of the many cruise ships available for that trek. This yearbook is your updated travelogue to help you remember how far you've traveled, and what obstacles you've overcome.

Climb aboard our enchanted ship and enjoy as we take you on a voyage into the past — your past. Gaze into the mystical waters of time as we reflect upon the past year, from all the triumphs and the glories to all the follies and sunken hopes.

So, come with us as we explore the watery depths of the past, where lost treasure and forgotten memories can forever be relived. 🐾

Pain

HI!
SCOTT

As we sat on the beach and gazed out over the water, we could almost swear that the waves were lapping the shore in line with the music pouring from our Sony. The throbbing beat was interrupted only by an occasional speeding boat or a shout from another beach goer.

This was the lake where in the summer we swam and waterskied. And when the sun was about to set, we took strolls along the shore with someone we loved. In the fall we would go down to the lake to look at all the crimsons, yellows and browns reflecting in the placid water. There we sat and took a break from school and the busy world.

After the leaves fell from the trees and everything turned white from the new fallen snow, we hoped the lake would freeze, so we could skate along and enjoy the brisk, free feeling of the cold air.

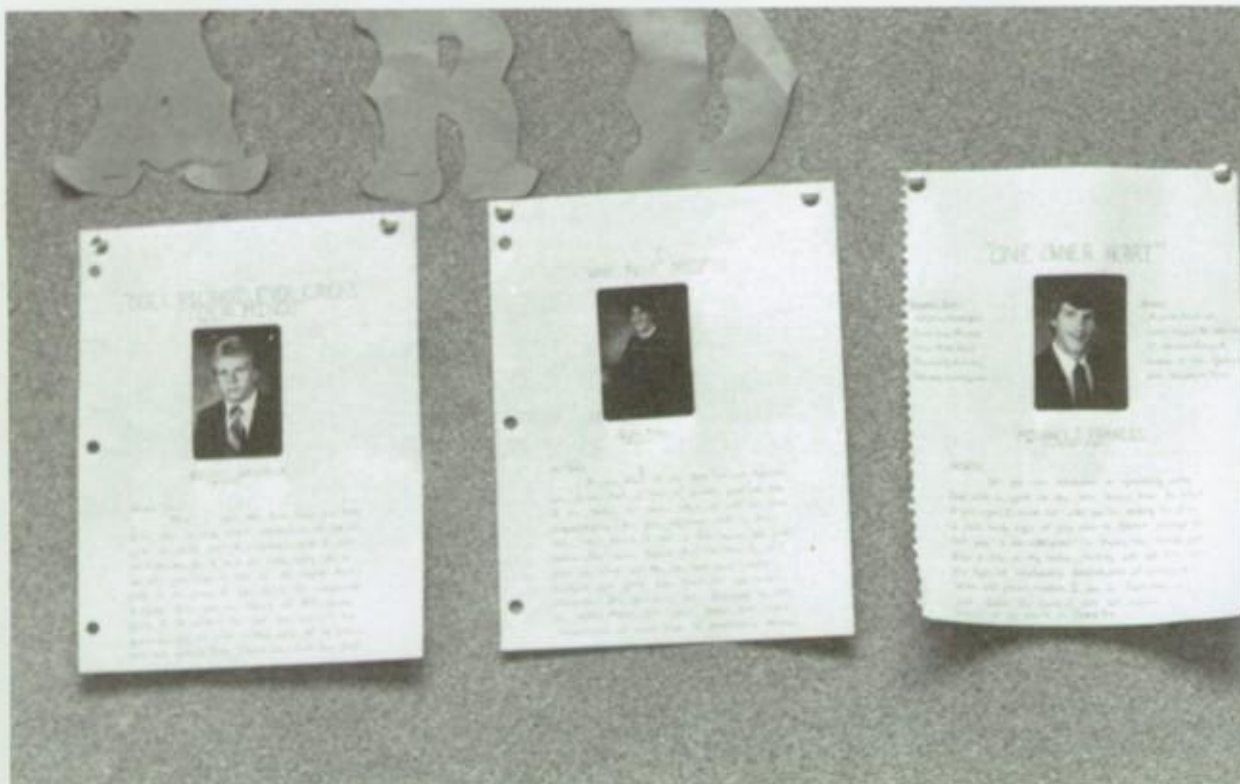

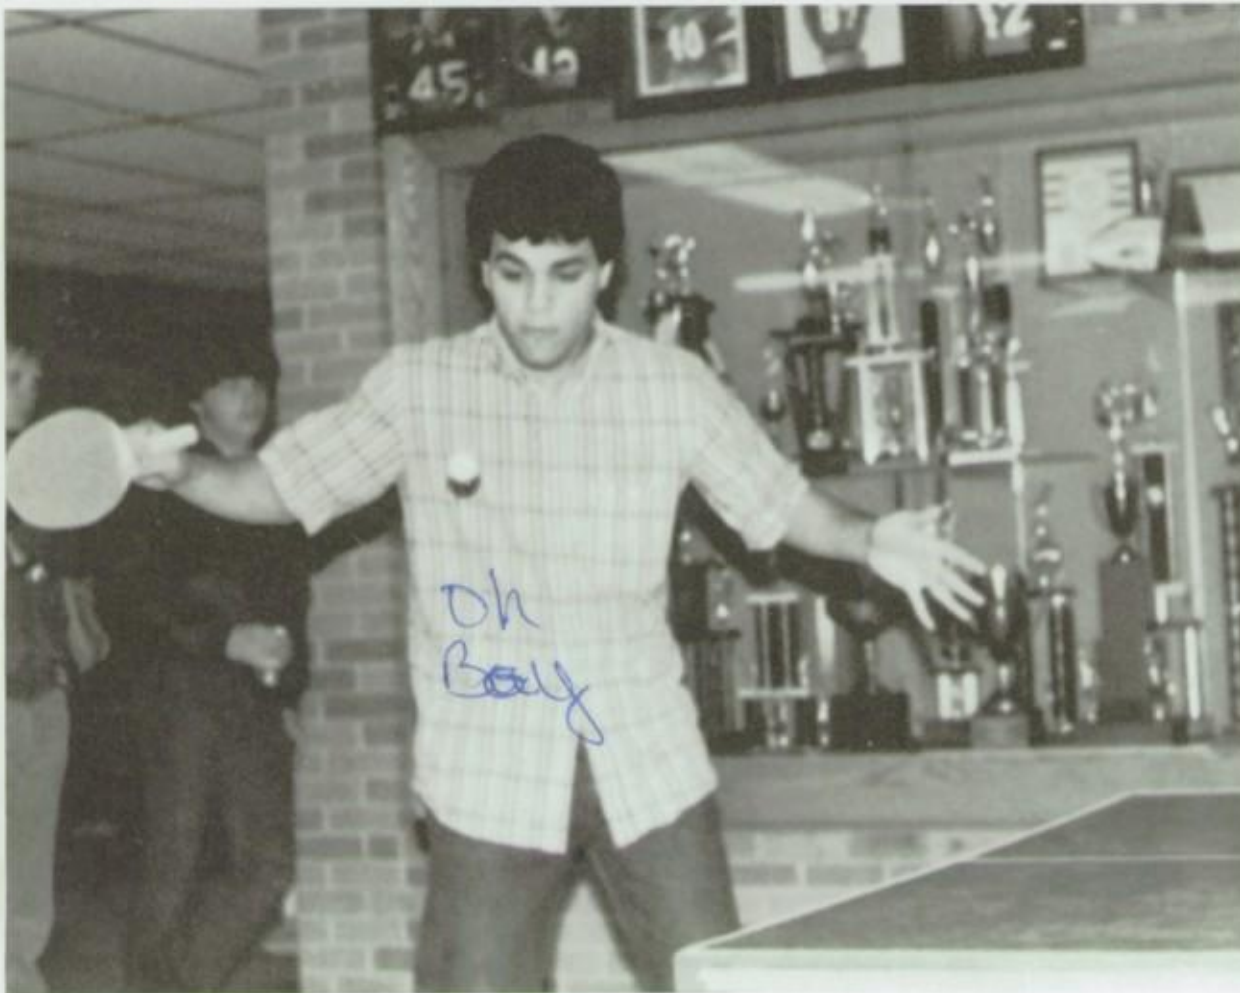

Then once again it was spring — the time when the ground thawed out and things started to bud and bloom. Again we sat by the water under the shade of a tree and picknicked with a few close friends.

Here in Wagoner the lake influenced much that we did. The lake was a part of our everyday lives. 🐾

What's New at the High School?

▲ Hugo Fernandes prepares to slam the ball to his opponent.

▲ Richard Swaringim, Glen Teel, and M. T. Francis advertise their loneliness on the student bulletin board.

▲ Daily Bulletin board readers check out the "Only the Lonely" advertisement.

▲ Valerie Varisco smiles enthusiastically as she returns the ping-pong ball.

Ping! Pong! Ping! Pong! Scream! Yell! These sounds were heard daily at lunch, thanks to the new addition of a ping-pong table. Many people enjoyed playing ping-pong or just cheering with the crowd during a series of tournaments.

The Student Council innovated Pepsi machines to add fizz to the lunch life. For fifty cents a person could purchase an icy cold soft drink which sometimes turned out to be anybody's guess.

Another addition was a student bulletin board used basically for announcements of interest to the entire student body. Four seniors actively used this bulletin board to advertise their lonely dating status to the student body. A person could respond to one of these "only the lonelies" by slipping a note into a designated locker with the requested information on it.

Along with a new principal came a new principal's policy — test exemptions. Anyone meeting the requirements did not have to report to school on the day semester exams were taken. 🐾

▲ Out of all the choices on the Pepsi machine, Tonya Sappington chooses Mountain Dew.

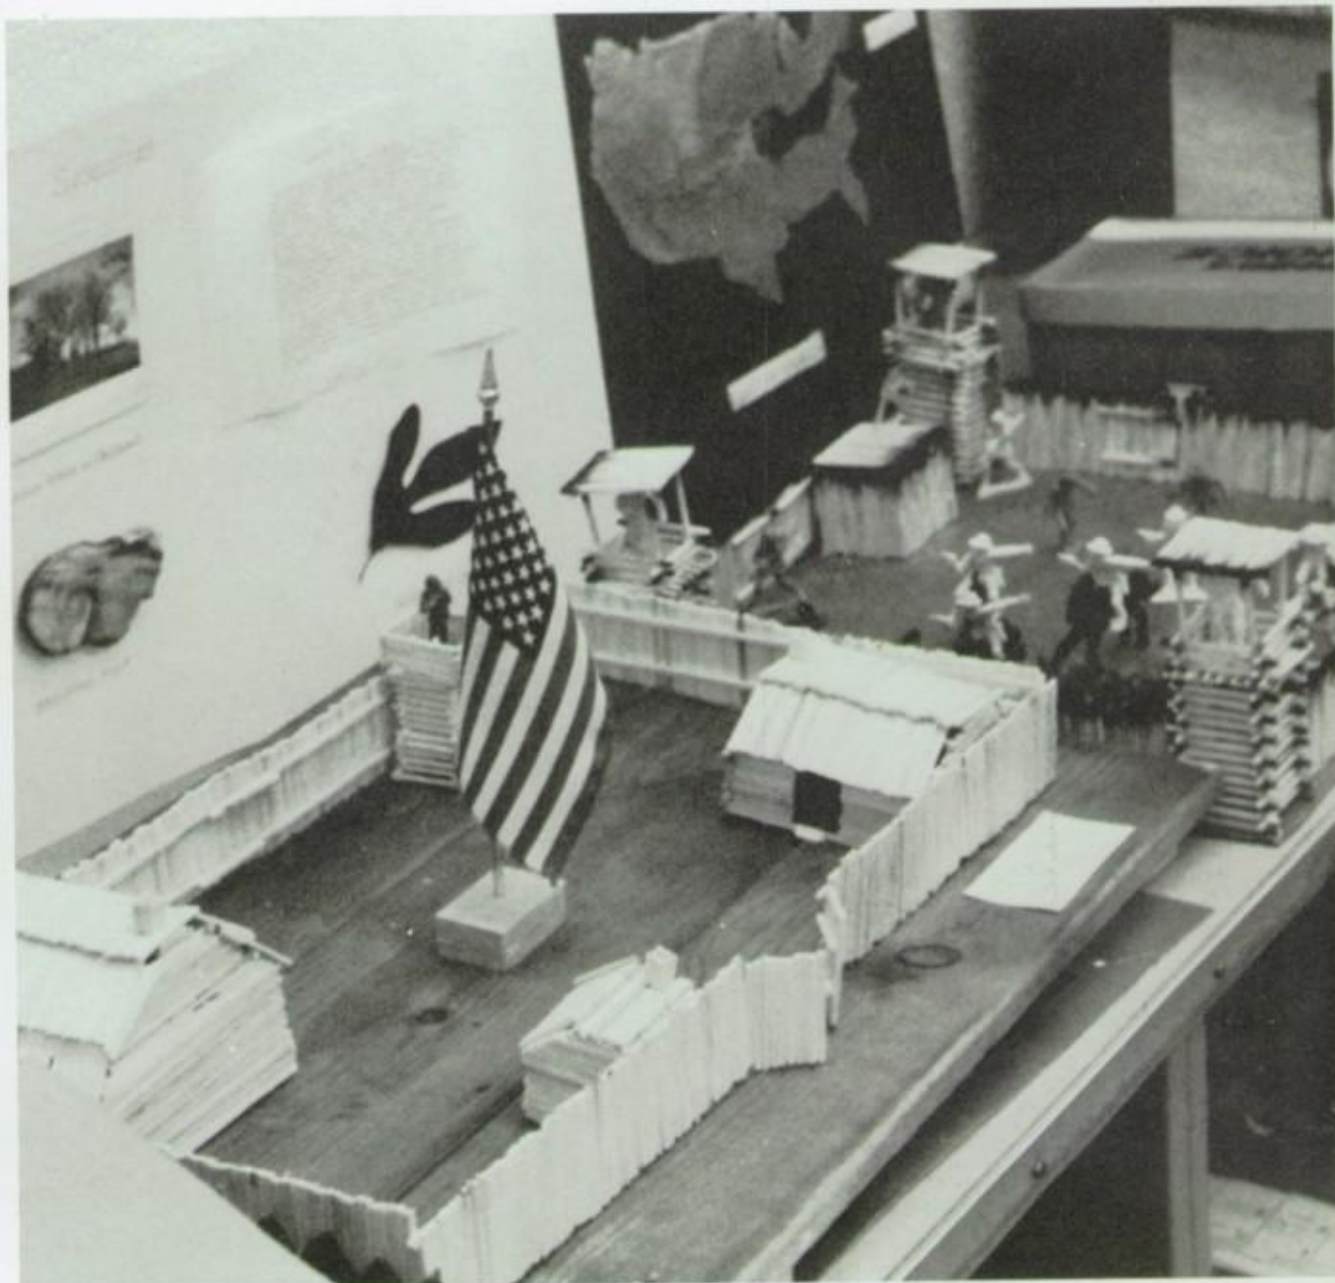

▲ Johnny Williams knows how to hit 'em.

▲ The crowd gathers to watch ping-pong champions, Olli Winzer and Hugo Fernandes, at lunch.

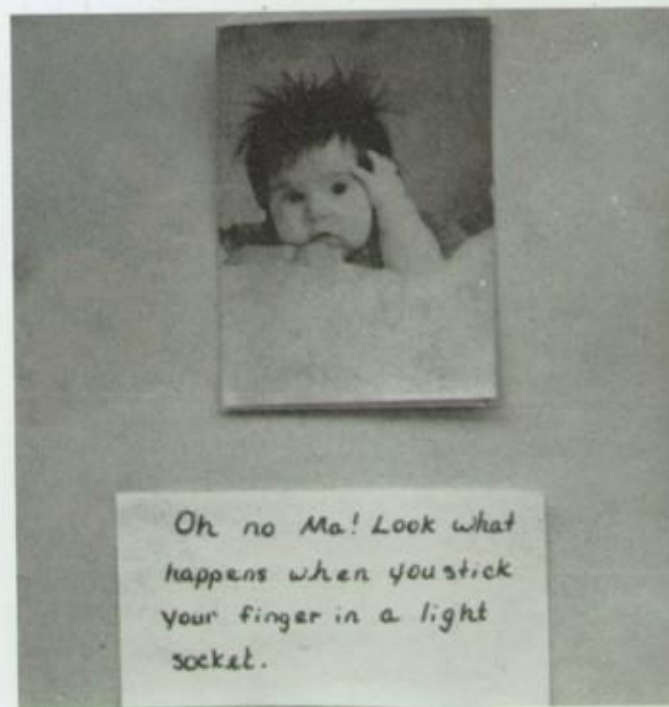

▼ A few of the great history projects that the freshmen made.

Global education

Reach Out and Touch Someone

Being an exchange student is not what it seems. Young people are not exchanged, but daily experiences are — not just sights and sounds, but the inner experience that comes only with the immersion in another country's culture.

Foreign exchange students embark on an experience whose dimensions can't be imagined. They gain insights not only into their new country, but into themselves, their own opinions and values. 🐾

Ricardo Harada

Richard Harada coveted an opportunity for an exchange experience so much that he came to Wagoner to spend December, January and February in an American family and high school.

In Brazil those months are summer vacation. So, after 3 months of winter here, he returned to Brazil just in time for his school term there.

Richard came to the U.S. with the Open Door program.

Who was Italian, seventeen years old and new to our school? Alessandra Bianconi, that's who!

Alessandra was a foreign exchange student from Rome, Italy. When asked what she thought of Wagoner, she stated "I think that it's a cute little city."

Such things as missing school due to snow, football and basketball games, and cruising were just a few differences between Wagoner and Rome.

Sandra was active in vocal music and enjoyed playing the piano. She participated in the OU Model United Nations and was head delegate for the Guatemala delegation.

Allesandra Bianconi

Olli Winzer

From West Berlin, German-WHS welcomed 16 year old Olli Winzer. A few of the new things Olli found in Wagoner, America included the love of American football and pizza, involvement in High School Basketball, visits to New Mexico and Arkansas and tons of new friends.

Olli found it easy to feel at home wherever there were sports. He played soccer and coached a younger soccer team. He worked his way up to varsity basketball team and was the singles ping-pong champ of WHS.

Like Allesandra, Olli came on a year long exchange with International Christian Youth Exchange.

While the other international students came to Wagoner through organized exchange programs, for Sandy Cassanova the experience was different.

Sandy left her family in Monterrey, Mexico but lived with Spanish speaking relatives here. Her cousin, Lee Guana, was a freshman and able to help Sandy with homework since they enrolled in the same classes.

Sandy Cassanova

Hugo Fernandes

"I've never lived in a small town like this before," said Hugo Fernandes, an 18 year old Senior from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Hugo found things here so much different than in the city of Rio. Here, everyone knows everyone; in the city it's a lot different.

Hugo made many new friends, won a ping-pong championship, was elected Wildest Senior boy, and experienced his first snow!

◀ Here are two twins, can you tell them apart? Right — one is a Parisotto and one is a Boyd.

▼ Ed Parisotto, Evan Boyd, Chris Parisotto, and Kevin Boyd — one similarity among the four of them is that they all have worked at Pizza Hur.

Double Trouble

Twins occur once in every 96 births. That means that in every 1000 live births, 10.42 of those are twins.

The enrollment of Wagoner Junior and Senior high schools is 1025 students, and that number includes 13 sets of twins. So Wagoner produces more sets of twins than the national average.

Twins don't always look alike, maintain the same interests or enjoy the same friends. But a talk with Wagoner twins shows some of the similarities that do exist.

You always have someone to talk to.

Sometimes we have the same dream.

When one of us was sick, the other was too.

One of us will be thinking of a song and the other will start singing it out loud.

Several of the twins agreed they were glad they were twins and enjoyed the advantages.

The closeness we share is something ordinary brothers and sisters don't have.

Without a twin you would have no extra help on homework. I would miss that.

Identical twins agreed it is fun to be able to fool everyone.

When we were in kindergarten we switched chairs for about a week before Shug figured it out.

I like to call my mom and act like my sister because on the phone she can't tell us apart.

I went out with my brother's girl friends

► Reminiscing about the past, Carol Young fills out her information sheet for the Double Trouble feature.

last summer.

We switched on Mrs. Stivers in the 9th grade and that was fun.

Being twins did cause conflicts.

One day after school I got beat up because these guys thought I was my brother.

When you want to be alone, sometimes it is difficult. A twin can be like a shadow.

You get tired of answering the inevitable questions — "Are you two really twins; you don't even look alike?" or "Uh — which one are you?"

We had to dress alike.

Sometimes when I'm on the hunt for a girl, I'd just as soon be a single faced guy.

The overriding opinion was that the advantages of being a twin outweighed the disadvantages.

To tell you the truth, I really couldn't think of myself not being a twin. 🐾 ▼ Lana Cheatham said, "When Lisa and I were in kindergarten we switched chairs for about a week until Shug figured it out and got mad." In the picture are: Lana and Lisa Cheatham, Carol and Mark Young, and Kelly and Kevin French.

▼ The administration building, which was built in 1925, is the background for this picture of Junior High twins. They are: Glenda and Linda Clayton, Melinda and Melissa Johnson, Laurel and Leslie Rosson.

◀ Flashing great smiles these happy Junior High twins are proud to be twins. They are Tate Caudle, (his twin Andy was sick that day), Mike and Michelle Strickelmeyer, Lisa and Teresa Bradley, Janice and Janet Brown, Laura and Michelle Perrillo.

They March to the Tune of a Different

If you see him walking down the hall to a syncopated beat; if cleaning out her locker brings a smile instead of a frown; if he reads his science book with a foot tapping; if she smiles and hums through a history lecture, look again.

There is probably a small wire coming from his or her ear and attached to a little box about waist level — the year of the Walkman — that little cassette machine that carried music wherever we went.

Music was a big part of our lives. For those who didn't have our own private source, we could sometimes get a teacher to turn on the intercom.

In the morning while we were still half asleep, we liked our music soft. As the day progressed, so did the volume. By evening we were really ready to get into it — unfortunately our parents weren't!

The big fun came when a great band was announced to come to Tulsa and we could save enough money to go. It seemed like that night would never come. Then it did — amplifier supported volume, the fabulous light show, the screaming crowd and that wonderful music, all coming together to create an unforgettable musical evening.

And, of course the next day, everyone knew who had been to that concert — T shirts, buttons, weary eyes and strained voices were a real give-away. 🐾

Did I Forget Something?

Homework? Isn't that the stuff that you forgot to do last night? Say, now that you remember, isn't there a test in English today?

At one time or another all of us have had this same occurrence. Homework is something that we all have; and something that most of us forget, ignore, or just don't do because of a date or other things we would rather be doing. Homework is dirty work, not because it is difficult or uninteresting, but because it takes up some of our free time, sleep time, or cruise time. Sometimes we get it done in time, but other times we have to take a zero, or a lower grade for being late. 🐾

▲ As Shawn Templeton does his Algebra he turns to Shelia Garrison for help.

► Some agree it is more fun to study with friends.

▼ With evenings filled with other activities Wallace Keys does his homework in the morning.

Seniors

Seniors Haul Anchor

As the seniors set sail on the vast unchartered seas of life, they leave behind the protected harbor of school, home, and family. For 12 years, they have lived on the outer edge of the storm. Their sails have been merely ruffled by the strong winds, but soon they will cast off into the central storm of life.

Suddenly, they are deluged with decisions they must make to plot their course in life. They know they must become their own navigator, crew, and captain and with full sails, they look to the horizon, check the wind, haul anchor and set their bearings for various goals in life. It won't always be smooth sailing and they will sometimes drift off the main course, but most will reach their destinations only to prepare themselves for the next leg of the journey. 🐾

It Was Worth It

As we sat through 175 days of English III
 We discovered ourselves, you see.
 Those who escaped the concession stand
 Might have been in the band.
 Don't you remember the heartache
 You gave your mom,
 When you were getting ready for the prom?
 Nine weeks tests were a definite dread
 But after they're taken, it was full speed ahead!
 Then comes the summer, and time to be bored.
 But after the summer — it's all aboard!

Sophomores

SHEESH!

Poor sophomores. They can't go to the prom. They can't be on the prom committee. They can't drive cars. They can't even work in the concession stand. So just what can the sophomores do?

Well, um, they can learn their way through the halls of Wagoner High School. They can be in Drivers Ed and learn to drive. They can work hard and make good grades. They can be servers at the prom. They can earn detention, or become royalty. Actually, they can do just about anything they put their minds to.

And that's just what those Sophomores did!

Riding The Wind

With a full wind in its sails, the Freshman class set out to sea — maneuvering through the crowded halls to beat the tardy bell, fleetingly trying to finish one of Mrs. McFarland's many different little projects before time to hand them in, or attempting to finish one of Mrs. Grimes' puzzling problems.

Freshmen were constantly on the move, going from class to class, catching the recent rumors in passing. They went to pep assemblies and showed their full-blown spirit. They went to the games and cheered the players to victory, or consoled them in defeat.

They twisted and turned at school dances, and the whole time they were devoting their energies to school and homework, they were having a great time as top dogs on the Junior High crew.

8th Grade

Sweet and Sassy Lookin' Fine We're the Class of '89

"Watching the fine looking ninth grade girls walk by." That was one of the answers the Yearbook Staff got when it sent representatives to the Jr. High to ask the question, What is the best thing about the eighth grade?

Other eighth graders replied, "We have more class than the freshmen and the seventh graders!", and "The full-of-spirit eighth graders will win your hearts with their winning students!"

"The eighth grade is number one in anyway you put it!", and "Compared to the seventh grade, the eighth grade is pure heaven!" Those were the feelings of some of the students, but not all of the students had such positive thoughts. "It is rough, rugged and cut-throat!" one eighth grader replied.

Even though a few had something negative to say, most of the eighth graders gave enthusiastic answers. Other responses include, "You get to see more of the ninth grade guys!" and "We may be the second step to the top of the ladder, but our spirit exceeds much higher."

It appears that the eighth graders of 1984-85 were proud and excited to be themselves.

7th Grade

Entering New Waters

Plunging into a new beginning, the seventh graders made their way down the crowded halls of Wagoner Junior High for the first time, not knowing what to expect.

New freedoms of choosing classes, the experiences of a different building, and the many friends made were all new to this large class of seventh graders.

Spirit and loyalty were aroused as they rooted for their class during the pep assemblies.

Sharing the activities with the upper classmen made this a new and exciting year. Struggling to stay afloat, the seventh graders made it through their first year of junior high with flying colors.

Art Is an Art

All students, both Junior High and High school, learned and brushed up their skills in art this year.

Beginning art classes provided introductory learning experiences in art. Students learned the basics of drawing and color. The course also covered clay, wood carving, metal work, leather work, and other crafts.

Students enrolled in advanced art produced artwork on a higher level. Advanced students had more intensive training in drawing, painting, sculpture, commercial design, and ceramics.

Painting was one of the harder projects. Students took the entire second nine-weeks to work with paint and by the end of the project, they either had a masterpiece, or a canvas with paint stains on it. 🐾

A Year of New Experiences

The highlight of this year for the band was their trip to Florida to perform in a national contest at Disney World. In order to attend this major event, they sold candy bars and other fund raisers all year long.

This year brought other pleasant surprises for the band as they used new uniforms, had the pleasure of utilizing the new synthesizer, and were led by new Drum major Katie Kelliher. 🐾

A Touch of Class

Sloshing on the field muddied by rain the previous day was a moment the 1985 Band Royalty members were not soon to forget. Elegant in the evening lights were the shimmering classic cars used to parade the attendants and their escorts around Odom field. After long hours of working on the throne they were very proud of it, also.

The 1985 Band Queen, Tammy Price, was crowned on October 29 during the half time show of the Coweta football game. Tammy plays the trumpet. Her escort and King, Steve Nicholas plays the French horn. The other members of their court and the instruments they play are; Seniors Johnna Sue Wells, tympani and rifles escorted by Steven Greuel, tenor saxophone; Juniors Katie Kelliher, clarinet escorted by Jimmy Cagle, baritone; Sophomores Susan Chappel, French horn escorted by Jack Hosley, baritone. The crown bearers assisting in the coronation were Maliesa Jenkins and Jeremy Amos.

Tote That Bar — Lift That Bail

For many who did not have time to eat breakfast before they arrived at school Distributive Education Clubs of America provided them with doughnuts. The doughnuts were sold to raise money for competition.

Several members of the Wagoner chapter competed at a DECAthlon which was held at OSU. The DECAthlon consisted of 10 job related contests. They also competed at the state competition.

DECA members held an employer appreciation breakfast at Country Cupboard. The breakfast gave the members a chance to meet the different employers and learn about different jobs.

Many members had jobs after school. Some students were allowed to leave the campus at 2:00 to go to work.

Some members felt that DECA helped them in understanding the fields in which they work. They learned the pros's and con's of the business world. 🐾

◀ Dwight Owens says about working at Apco: "I enjoy working because it offers me an opportunity to earn money and gain work experience while in High School. Also, working affords me an opportunity to advance into managerial training, which will lead to a manager's job."

Business is a Pleasure

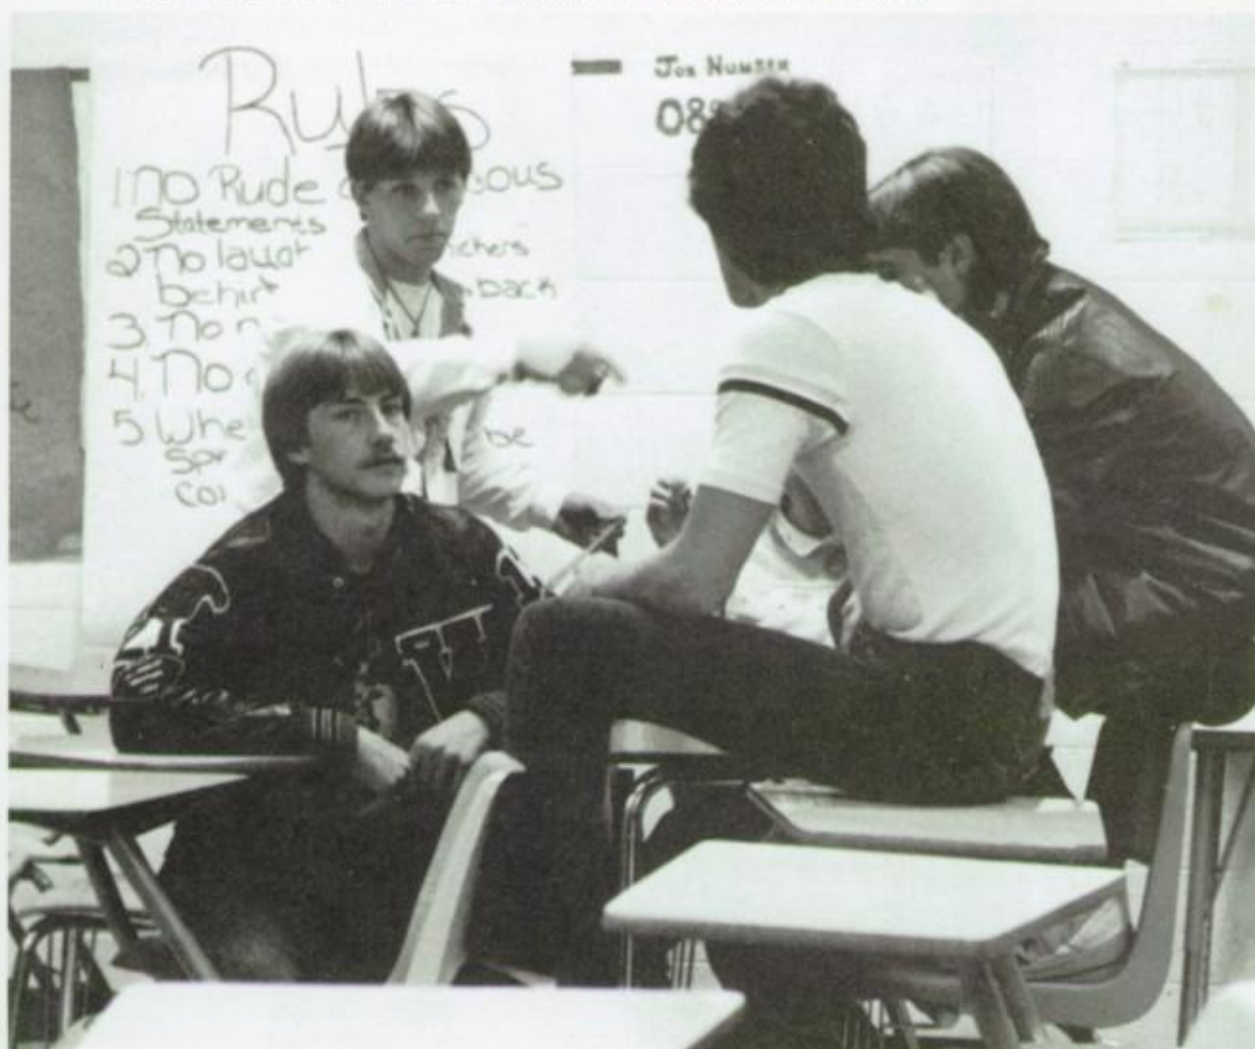

Drama is one of the few classes that can combine fun and hard work into a good learning experience. It is Mrs. Galusha's job to take students with raw talent and refine them into fine tuned dramatic actors. She accomplishes this by teaching them stage movement, voice control, pantomime, and all the other stage "basics."

It's not all work though. The students are often allowed to utilize their pantomime technique in highly competitive matches of charades.

They also put on a childrens play, and sent several actors to contests, putting a duet team in the finals. Although they didn't come home with a trophy, they did come home with an experience that will stay with them the rest of their lives.

▼ Ben Pinx shows the true essence of drama through pantomime movement.

Law and Order

As any class, the drama class has a set of rules, but the means of punishment is different — it holds trials. In one case the defendant, Alan Marston, was charged with breaking statutes 1, 3, and 5 of the drama class code. The plaintiff, Kim Denton, worked with her attorney, Michele Young, as did the defendant with his defense counsel, Trae Reese, for one week to prepare for the hearing. Then it was time. The bailiff, Bobby Kubistek, swore in the jury and the honorable Mrs. Galusha ordered the proceedings to begin. The defense made the first strike, managing to have one of the charges dropped on technicalities. After two days of court action, the verdict was in, finding the defendant innocent on one count and guilty of the remaining charge. The judge laid sentence upon him, and he was released 5 days later, a free man. 🐾

Look Out, World — Here We Come

Packed and ready to go see the world, the Foreign Language Club tramped out to the Wagoner airport to catch the first plane out. The plane was there — a single engine — not nearly big enough for the 66 club members.

So the club had to simulate a series of foreign experiences throughout the year.

On Halloween, decked in costumes from around the world, members spread out over the City of Wagoner, trick-or-treating for UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund). They raised $249.20. Returning to Kelly Francis' home, all entered into the annual "escargot" feast and initiation.

The Christmas progressive dinner gave members a taste of food and culture of England, Holland, Sweden, Mexico, Italy, as well as a smorgasbord of international desserts and a chance to experience a Finnish sauna.

Exchange students from Mexico, Brazil, West Germany and Italy enriched the club with their own personal experiences. They led the club in planning and organizing an International Dance for both fun and fund raising. 🐾

FBLA Business Booms

FBLA was part of many helpful service projects this year. With the addition of pop machines to our school, there was a need to dispose of the waste. FBLA took care of that problem by setting up designated trash barrels for aluminum cans. The cans were taken to be recycled for funds. This project was a great service to the school as well as a profitable one.

Other service projects included toys for tots at Christmas, and a food basket at Thanksgiving for needy families.

Holidays set the theme for many FBLA activities. For the October meeting they had a scavenger hunt and a jack-o-lantern carving contest. The November meeting supplied them with a turkey chase and guest speakers Bob Risor and Lucy Mallett. December brought a Christmas dinner at the community building with state officers Christi Favor and Rodney Frye.

Data Match, which provided a computer printout to applicants of the 10 people they would be most compatible with, livened up Valentine's Day not only for FBLA members, but for the entire high school.

They also filled the year with fund raisers. Treat bags on Halloween, cabbage patch clip-ons, pocket calendars, and raffle tickets on a rick of wood. Members worked very hard on these fund raisers, especially the raffling of a rick of wood which they cut themselves in the pouring rain.

The members attended state contest during march. They competed in various contests relating to business skills.

Club Lives for Fairs

Livestock shows played an important part of the year for Future Farmers of America. They started last summer. In the fall they won several prizes in the Tulsa State, Wagoner County, and Muskogee County fairs. One of their biggest prizes was the grand beef champion at the Tulsa State Fair.

Show season started again in the spring on February 8. Some of the Junior Livestock shows FFA participated in were Pryor, Anderson, Mo, Muskogee, and Oklahoma City.

About 45 boys and girls were enrolled in the Vo-Ag program at school. In effect, this is synonymous with FFA. One of the class's main activities was field trips. Others included producer agriculture, agriculture business, shop, financing, and processing.

Several of the kids were able to participate in a supervised work experience. For example, Jamie Fulk had the opportunity "of taking care of almost everything on a man's farm — from his dog to his thoroughbred race horses." About twelve other members participated in this program. 🐾

Involved in the Future

FHA members learned the importance of planning for the future. The members were students of a home economics class. They learned the basics of homemaking, which included cooking, sewing, and child care.

In the spring an annual FHA banquet was held. Parents were invited as guests, and the coronation of royalty took place.

Christmas was an exciting time for members of FHA. They treated the Head Start children to a Christmas party, and also had a party for themselves. They were involved in making a float for the Christmas parade, too.

The sponsor for FHA was Charla Vaught.

The Future Homemakers of America coronation was held on April 19th during the annual Spring Parent Banquet. At this banquet awards were also given.

In the F.H.A. Royalty the girls were those holding the four highest offices while the boys were elected by the chapter.

The royalty members proudly rode in both the Homecoming and Christmas parades.

► FTA member Chris Potter tends the donation can while Beth Rowe makes a generous contribution to "Save the Lady."

► Lisa Davis is FTA's recipient of the Optimist award.

► Glenna Neel and Gail Beeler are putting "teacher" leaves above the doors before the open house begins.

Future Teachers of America responded to the national effort to save the Statue of Liberty by organizing a fund drive here in Wagoner. They became interested after seeing an article in the Oklahoma Teacher and went from class to class collecting money. A collection jar was also set up in the office. Contributions for "Saving the Lady" totaled seventy-five dollars. A list of all the donors was posted on the student bulletin board and another one was expected to appear on a plaque at the Statue of Liberty.

FTA's national slogan for 1984-85 was "Training Tomorrow's Teachers today." What can a high school student do to train to be a teacher? Some of the things this group worked on were self-confidence, appearing in public, and planning. Other personal traits they worked on were dependability, responsibility, understanding, and helpfulness. Perhaps these don't sound like things that would help someone to teach a class, but these are the qualities possessed by all good teachers.

Some of the highlights of the year included organizing and hosting the fall open house and receiving a trophy from the Wagoner Optimist Club. The hosts for the open house were Karlene Oxford, Chris Potter, Lisa Davis, David Sisco, and Sherry Freeman. Lisa Davis was the winner of the Optimist award. Other activities included a bake sale at Wal-Mart, selling musical Christmas bells, and having a Christmas party. Immediately before their party, the group sang Christmas carols at the nursing home and presented the story of the Chrysanthemum. They were happy when they thrilled one elderly man who was not expected to live much longer by giving him a real Chrysanthemum.

Another of their activities was to attend a fall conference late in October in Oklahoma City. At that workshop they learned how to put out a newsletter, attended a parliamentary procedures program, saw a presentation about projects for the spring state convention in Stillwater, and heard about the contest rules and regulations for that convention. Members of the club entered the poetry, speaking, creative writing, and poster contests. Projects they brought to the convention included a scrapbook and a projects report. 🐾

Student Council Adds Fizz to School Life

The Student Council had a very energetic beginning with many new projects to attempt.

This enthusiastic bunch owned one of the pop machines which was their sole source of money making.

During homecoming week lots of spirit was displayed by Nerds, Slobs, and lots of hats and shades.

A new privilege at the high school was being able to attend assemblies that the student council planned. In November a motivational speaker spoke to a crowded auditorium of students. In March they got the student body involved in a talent show that turned out to be a big success.

The group had a Halloween pajama party at Johnna Sue's house. They enjoyed trick-or-treating, Chinese firedrills, food, fun, and a scary movie.

For Christmas they provided a Christmas tree which the student body was asked to decorate. They also organized an All-School Christmas party that got a lot of various clubs involved in the Christmas spirit. 🐾

► For an 8:00 am meeting, S.C. has a big attendance rate because people like Scott, Alan, James, Jenni and Shannon care about what's best for the student body.

▼ Sean Goff and Shannon Mackey listen to the full discussion about Academic Letter jackets before they voice their opinions.

Everybody Depends Upon the Student Council

They had seen it many times before, but the Student Council sponsored movie, Old Yeller, brought tears to the eyes of students again this year. Showing a movie was one of the money making projects of the Student Council.

That money was important to the Student Council because it paid for the prom, a highlight of the year at the Junior High. The Student Council chose the theme and did the decorating. No one can forget about the Prom — such a big secret!

"They wouldn't tell anyone about it, even when we begged!"

"Everything turned out great, even better since we didn't know what we would see till we walked into the gym."

The Junior High Student Council works for certain privileges for the students — the most preferred being FREE TIME. Students got to go to a few athletic events in the gym during fifth and sixth hours.

The favorite was "letting us out of class a couple of times when we were good, to buy things in the concession stand and then go to the gym to sit and talk to our friends." 🐾

They Will Know We Are Christians By Our Love

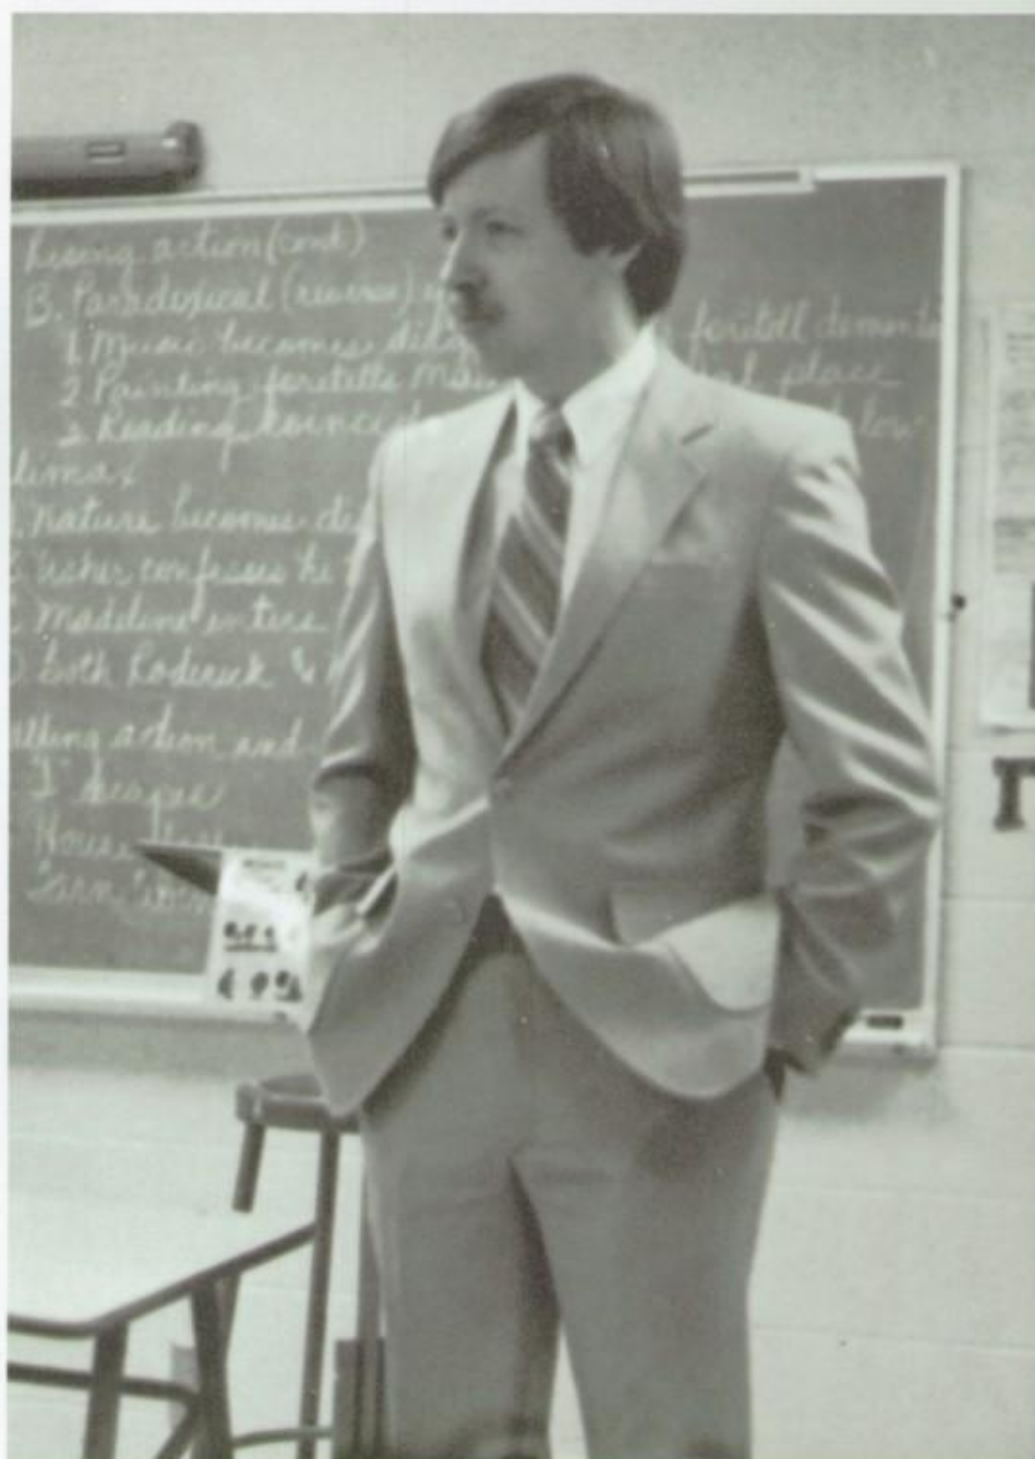

Every Wednesday morning in room 111 at 8:00, Teens For Christ met to have a period of devotion, singing, praying and sharing testimonies.

James Stansell served as president for T.F.C. along with Traci Musser, vice-president and social director and Jamesetta Blandon served as secretary and song leader. Together they all created a good year of fellowship with the members.

Some guest speakers that came to share with T.F.C. members were Jim Graham, Father Jerry Ryan, Steve Bridwell and Clayton Crafton. Coach Pryor sang two songs. Another Christian Club of WHS was Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Most of Wagoner's athletes participated in this club at one time or another. They held their meetings Monday evenings with the estimated presence of 20. Coach Brett Smith was the advisor and Curtis Hill, the president. 🐾

► Steve Bridwell, new minister from First Christian Church, shares some of the events that led him to the ministry at an early morning T.F.C. meeting.

▼ Traci Musser discusses the available days to have a T.F.C. Christmas party.

◀ Traci Musser is just about ready to write the date for the T.F.C. Christmas party on Mrs. Bennett's busy blackboard.

▼ Mark Tracy and Durwood Cook are faithful in coming to T.F.C. meetings. Mark even skips breakfast on Wednesday mornings to get to Mrs. Bennett's by 8:00!

▲ Mark is explaining some of the facts of life and Durwood finds them outstanding.

In My Heart

There Rings a Melody

Interpreting a national plea for quality education as "back to basics" meant an increase in specific requirements for graduation. For some students that meant dropping beloved fine arts and a decreased enrollment in music, along with other electives.

High School vocal music classes were the smallest in many years, but the number and variety of experiences for vocal music students was about the same.

Individually, some were willing to risk the queasy stomach and icy eyes of judges to audition for All-State Chorus, Eastern District Honors Choir and district competition.

Those who qualified for Eastern District Honors Choir had the opportunity to work for a full day in the NSU auditorium under the leadership of Dr. Jerry McCoy from the music department of OSU. They topped their rehearsal day with an evening concert and the awarding of a large patch to display on jacket, book bag or jeans pocket.

With Mrs. Abner's organizing, a bus load of vocal students traveled to Tulsa on the night that the noted Millikin University choir performed there. "That was the most beautiful music I have ever heard. That tenor was out of this world," said one impressed music student.

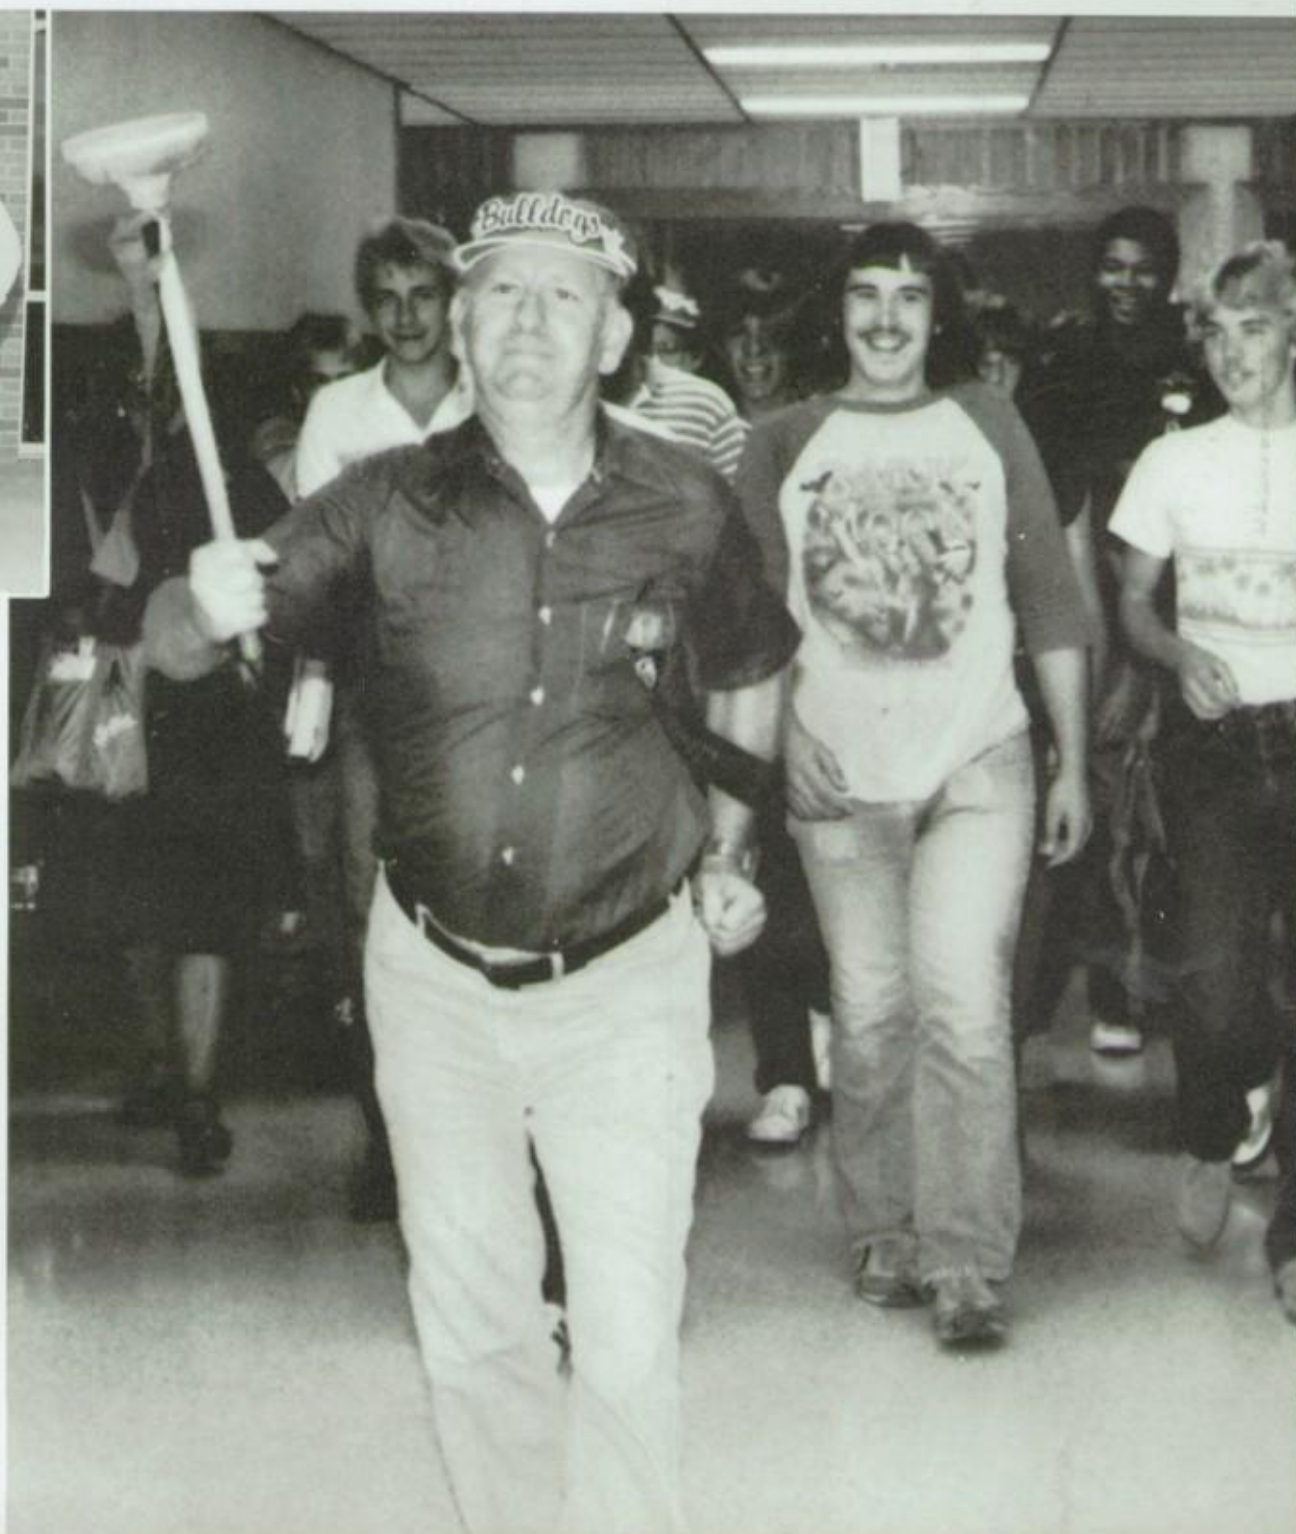

Open House, other school functions, Retired Teachers Association and the Christmas and spring concerts were opportunities for vocal students to show off their talent and training.

▼ Mike Potter and Sonya Perry concentrate on learning the difficult part work of The Messiah for the Christmas program.

► Clay Frost is seen a lot of places around school, but no one expected to see him leading the high school choir down the halls as they sang "Onward Bulldogs" on the day of a big game.

◀ Mrs. Abner accompanies Jeff Varisco as he prepares for solo competition at District.

◀ The upcoming Christmas concert means it is time to check out the choir robes for size and to take them home to be pressed. Tonya Sappington assists Donna Macha.

▲ Also included in h.s. vocal are Back: Shane Greer, Jeff Varisco, Steven Grueul, Steve Nicholas, Allen Gifford, Michael Olson. Middle: Billy Outz, Roger Earlabough, Rufus Gifford, Andy Gugluzzi, Brent Harris, Trey French, Chris Potter. Bottom: Lynda Sanders, Cindy Nickles, Jamesetta Blandon, Alessandra Bianconi, Sharon Lee, Traci Musser.

◀ Tonya Sappington, Kris Galusha, Phillip Townsend, Sonya Perry and Ellen Teel gather around the electric piano to practice for upcoming Honors Choir auditions. All were awarded places in that choir.

Queen Crowned at Christmas Concert

"Tonight I Celebrate My Love For You" was the song Vocal President Allen Gilford and Queen Jamesetta Blandon started the night off with after Jamesetta was crowned queen.

The coronation was held on the night of the annual Christmas concert.

The King, Queen, and their court had a very hectic and busy day of nonstop motion. It started with the day long project of building the throne. When finished they each went their separate ways to prepare for the evening of excitement.

The coronation started with a candlelight procession of Sophomore Attendant Ellen Teel escorted by Kris Galusha, Junior Attendant Lynda Sanders escorted by Andy Gugliuzzi, Senior Attendant Traci Musser escorted by James Cobb. Crown Bearer was Barbara Lyons escorted by Brian Williams. Once the court was in place Queen Jamesetta Blandon escorted by King Allen Gilford came forward to join the rest.

The King and Queen presented each other with the medals, sang their song and then the Christmas concert began.

For Your Listening Enjoyment

This was a busy year for Junior High Vocal. Under the direction of Mrs. Abner, the 8th and 9th grade classes attended the Annual Choral Festival at Northeastern and went Christmas caroling on the streets of downtown Wagoner.

This year's vocal council included Jon Ed Yates, James Blandon, Lisa Murphy, Tracy Reeves, Rocky Gibson, Michelle Day, and Connie Self.

Seventh grade vocal sang at Open House, and had a Christmas program. Under Roberta Moore's direction, the class enjoyed acting experiences as well as musical ones. 🐾

Preparing for Leadership in the World of Work

VICA students learned the skill of building a house a step at a time. First the students read in the text about the skill they were about to undertake. After careful study, they would try it out.

VICA was not only building a house, it was also a club that met the fourth Tuesday of every month. The club officers were President Shane Greer, Vice-President Lance Lancaster, Secretary/Treasurer Michael Cannon, Reporter Mark Young, Chaplain Jerry Rice, Parliamentarian Steve Nicholas, and Historian Steve Greuel. These officers traveled to Claremore and Inola to watch demonstrations of hanging doors and building trusses.

Building a house took most of the year, and a lot of hard work was necessary. But in the words of Frank Hovinetz, "Carpenters are only limited by their skill and imagination." 🐾

Building Skills for Future

At the early hour of 7:30 a.m. (before some of the rest of the students are even out of bed) the morning class of vo-tech climbs aboard the big yellow bus all lazy-eyed and sit there for a ride to the vo-tech school in Muskogee.

Once they're there, the day begins. A number of them go to drafting, some welding and others to business, electronics, auto body, diesel mechanics, health, auto mechanics, small engines, masonry, graphic arts, air conditioning vocational services, aircraft mechanics and machine shop.

At 11:25 a.m. the second crew (called the afternoon vo-tech) takes their places on the bus to take them to the same place where the morning vo-tech just left after putting in their three hours of the course they had chosen.

So, what goes on over there for three hours? Well, quite more goes on than what we think. Vocational Education is really a head start in a career of your choice. By being in the class and learning how to do it and actually doing it, cuts down the number of college hours needed.

So while the rest of us are here learning everyday basics, the vo-tech students are all ready getting experience and a head start in their careers. 🐾

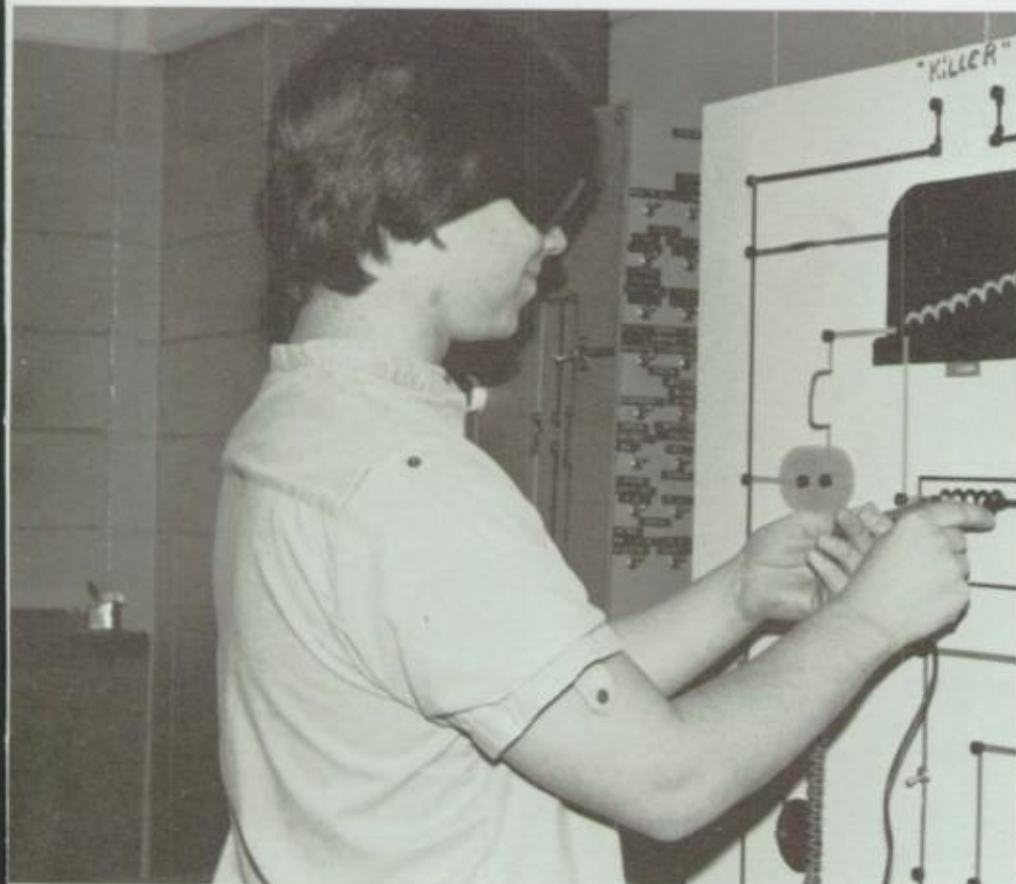

▲ Roger Revill almost knows it all when it comes to Air Conditioning.

▲ Dennis Cobb sands down a car to make it look as good as new in Auto Body.

▲ In the health department, Diana Jones and Breezeda Baker are caught making up a hospital bed.

◀ In Air Conditioning, Keith Kilpatrick shows us his stuff.

▼ Aileen Gray runs a printer in her Graphic Arts class.

◀ Barry Fosburg and Mike Grimes oil down an engine block in Auto Mechanics I.

▲ In Diesel Mechanics, Kenny Jones and Chuck Castillo have an engine head on a hoist.

▲ Mark Criswell learns all there is to know in masonry.

Girls Learn About Government

"Funny, the first two days everybody, including myself, wanted to leave; now I have a fear I will never see those wonderful people again."

Those are the words Tammy Baxter used to describe her feelings upon leaving Girls' State. She and Johnna Sue Wells were the two girls chosen from Wagoner to attend the 7 day conference in Ada, Ok.

During that period of time, the two attended political lectures, participated in city elections, worked out municipal safety procedures, and grew into a true family.

As part of the program, sponsored by the American Legion Auxilliary, the two girls were separated, paired up with new roommates, and placed in different groups (cities).

This was scary for them, but both agreed that it was a great help to them. Johnna and Tammy gained friends and experiences that will bring pleasure upon reflection for many years to come. 🐾

Students Look Ahead

This year, Mrs. Bennett piloted the Wagoner Upward Bound group to what turned out to be an informative and fun year, as they strengthened their knowledge in English and math.

They also further enriched themselves as they visited other campuses, attended the opera, and went other places of common and cultural interest.

Working under a new program, the students concentrated on English for one semester, and worked on math for the other semester.

It wasn't all work and no play for the group though, as they met with other groups, held dances and parties in order to break away from the routine. 🐾

Alma and Janet relax before yet another of those grueling sessions.

All Night Long

▼ Beth and Sheila show enthusiasm for their lovable animals.

The yearbook was produced by a hand picked group that called themselves the All-Night Party. The name originated because of some late-night action at a workshop in the summer held at Western Hills Lodge. Since then, it has taken on a political meaning as well. The merchandising campaign highlighted the name with the Great Debate of the League of Bulldog Voters.

The staff has certainly earned its name with several late-night work parties. At times it seemed like an endless night with important deadlines approaching, but before the year ended, the sun had begun to rise. The longest party held was on the night before the final deadline.

"All Night Party" sweatshirts were a common sight during the year as the staff tried to promote interest in the yearbook. Those confused by the number 08940 should understand that this was the job number identifying it as Wagoner High School at the publishing plant.

With hopes of continuing the tradition of a spring excursion to the Taylor Publishing Plant in Dallas, the staff sold lovable animals in January. 🐾

◀ Lisa Greer, Sheila Vanbrunt and Missy Crowe show the before, during and after stages of putting together a yearbook.

Trouble With Tradition

Yearbook Royalty was the only royalty that involved the entire high school. Each class, sophomore, junior, and senior, chose candidates. Then each individual was allowed to vote for which class's candidates they wanted to be King and Queen when they purchased a yearbook.

The announcement of King and Queen was traditionally a secret, but a problem occurred when Renee Breed, a member of the yearbook staff, was selected as the Junior class's candidate. Top secret was put on the page and proofs so that the tradition would carry on.

On the day of the yearbook distribution, senior candidates Scott Dugger and Lana Cheatham were announced King and Queen. The other candidates were juniors Mark Morgan and Renee Breed, and sophomores Roger Drake and Heather Fleming.

This year, physics, chemistry, physical science, and biology students had 2 new teachers, Bryant and Day, to guide them through the fascinating worlds of science. Through experiments and home projects, they were introduced to the eye-opening laws of nature in the world around them. Although not all of them will be Einsteins, most of these students have learned something that will stick with them long after the test tubes have cooled. 🐾

► Here's to Family Living!

Students 'Ham' It Up!

Cooking and eating aren't the only things to do in Family Living class! The students also learn about many other aspects of family life. For instance, they learn about the various costs and procedures of matrimony by participating in a mock wedding. Caring for infants and small children is another unit of study they cover. Buying a house, insuring themselves and property, and learning about what's stylish and what's not in clothing fill the year with a wide variety of learning experiences. Any student who takes family living will be well prepared for adult life. 🐾

There's Still Hope

For the first time in several years, a bond issue was passed for the Wagoner Public School Systems. This meant major expansions at the high school will help relieve the heavy class loads. This will benefit both students and teachers.

Since the new high school was built in 1978, some teachers have had to hold class in other teachers' rooms and in the commons area. With this bond issue 12 more classrooms and a new eating area will be added on.

For the first time Mrs. Abner could look forward to a vocal music room and Mr. Adams knew he wouldn't have to wheel his little desk around forever. 🐾

Behind the Scenes

Although school service people often went unnoticed and unthanked, we couldn't have gotten along without them.

Where would we have been without the custodians to clean our floors and solve our maintenance problems? What would we have done if the cooks hadn't been there to feed us lunch when our stomachs were grumbling with voracious hunger?

The school nurse ran from school to school taking temperatures and providing health care.

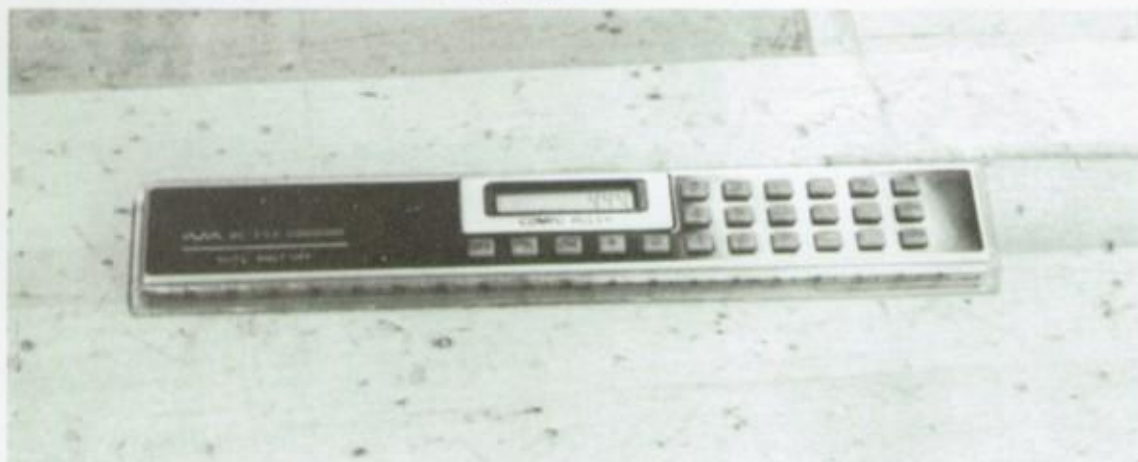

Buses didn't pick up hundreds of students. Bus drivers did. And mechanics kept the buses functioning.

Special services staff directed an integral part of school life from behind the scenes. 🐾

▼ Modern tools help students over the rough spots.

▲ Wagoner prides itself on quality students like Sean Goff.

▲ JJ Pinx dreams about the day ahead and wonders if he'll make it.

▼ Even the drudgery of school can't drive the smiles away!

▲ Wagoner teachers are of the highest quality.

▲ Rain or shine, when that 3:00 bell rings, students take their leave.

Additional ribbons were won for individual performances. Also preparing for the season, the girls attended Universal Cheerleaders Association Cheer Camp at Tulsa University. There they learned cheers and chants to boost the bulldog spirit. They also won a spirit stick for outstanding enthusiasm.

Besides cheering at the basketball, football games and wrestling matches, the cheerleaders boosted spirit in many other ways. They put on pep assemblies, one at the football field for a change. They cheered at bon fires. They sold spirit ribbons and held a drawing for a spirit cake made by the cheerleaders themselves. On every Thursday before the football games, they decorated the field house to give the players a lift before the game on Friday. 🐾

Great Pride on the Junior High Side

The Wagoner junior high cheerleaders had a great start. During the summer, they received an outstanding first place at the All Star Cheerleading Camp and second place at the Dynamic Cheerleading Association camp.

The WJH cheerleaders worked to arouse spirit in junior high football, basketball, and wrestling. Since this was the first year for all the girls on the squad, they had to learn together.

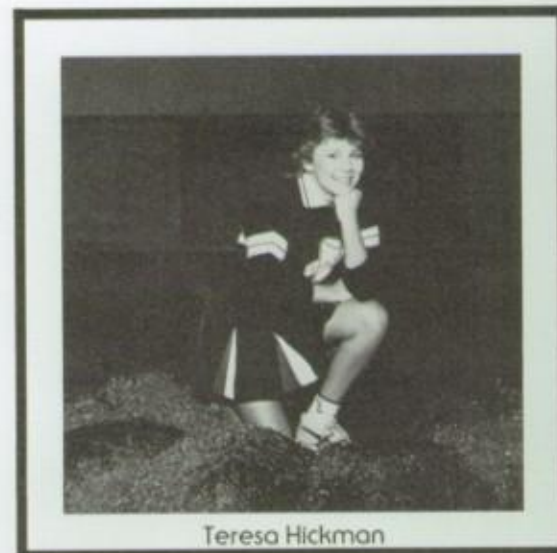

It took a lot of hard work and dedication to put it all together. The cheerleaders cheered for both the 8th grade and 9th grade, and the long games would sometimes become tiring.

Most of the time the cheerleaders had fun, and they became very close to each other. They were like one big family.

The sponsor for the WJH cheerleaders was Mrs. Cleora Gravitt.

The Far-Out Athletics

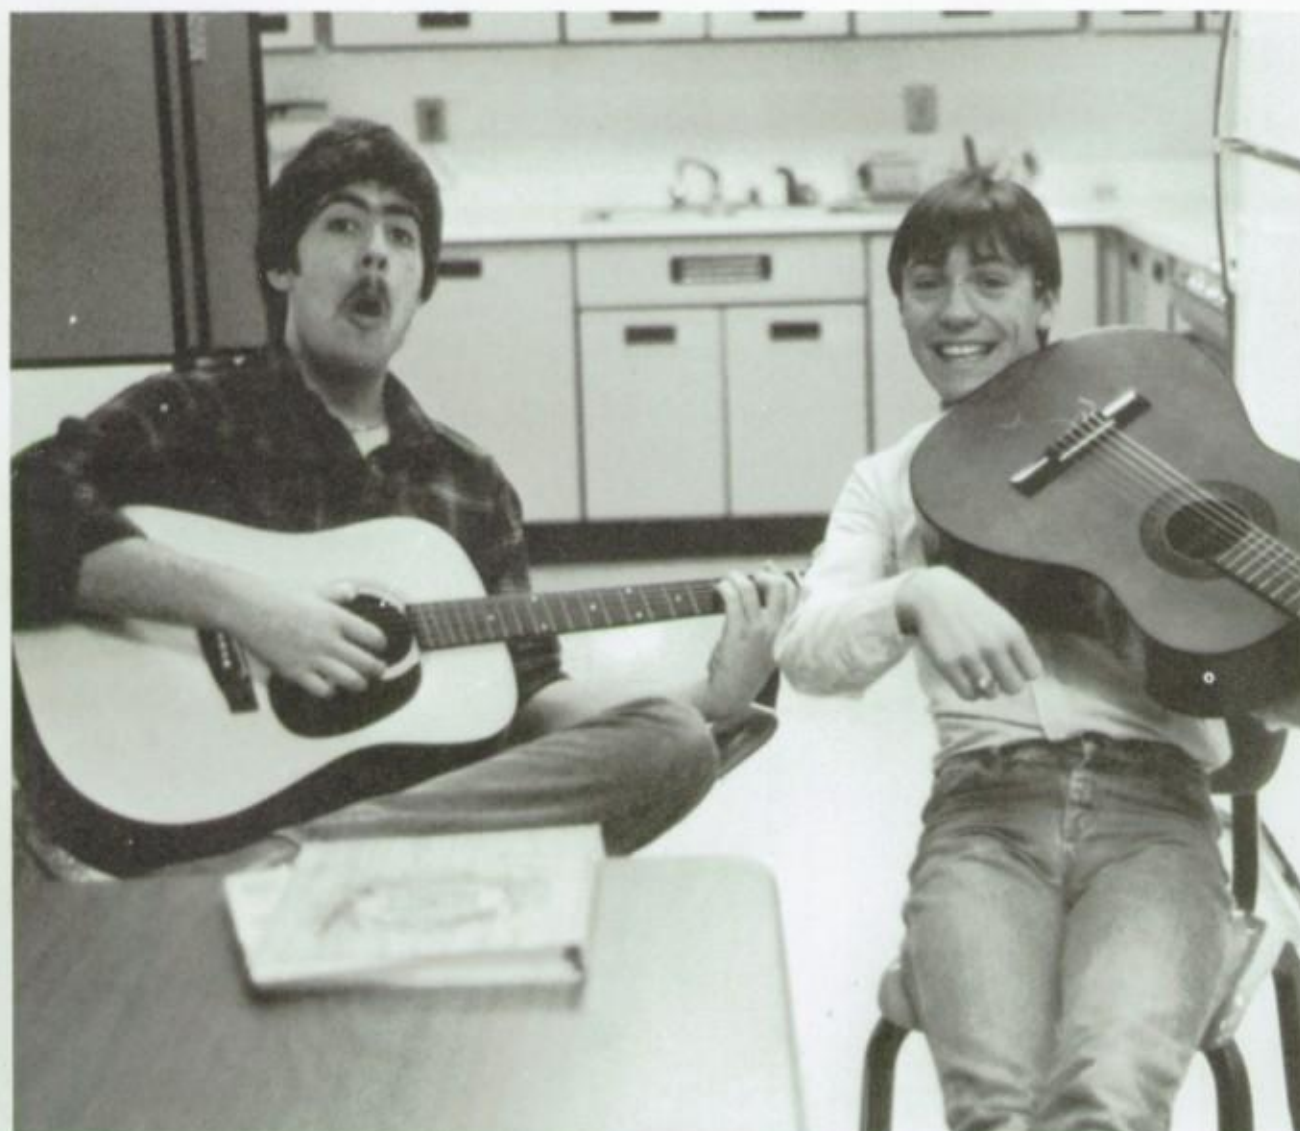

Some people competed in a different type of sporting competition. No, it wasn't Wrestling, Basketball, or Football. It was the Far-Out Athletics.

These sports showed the different personalities of Wagoner High School. They ranged from the Piling-Paper Event to the Stealing-The-Food-Before-You-Get-Caught Event.

Even though some students couldn't make a touchdown or dribble a basketball, they had other hidden athletic talents waiting to come out. 🐾

Bulldogs Begin With a Bang

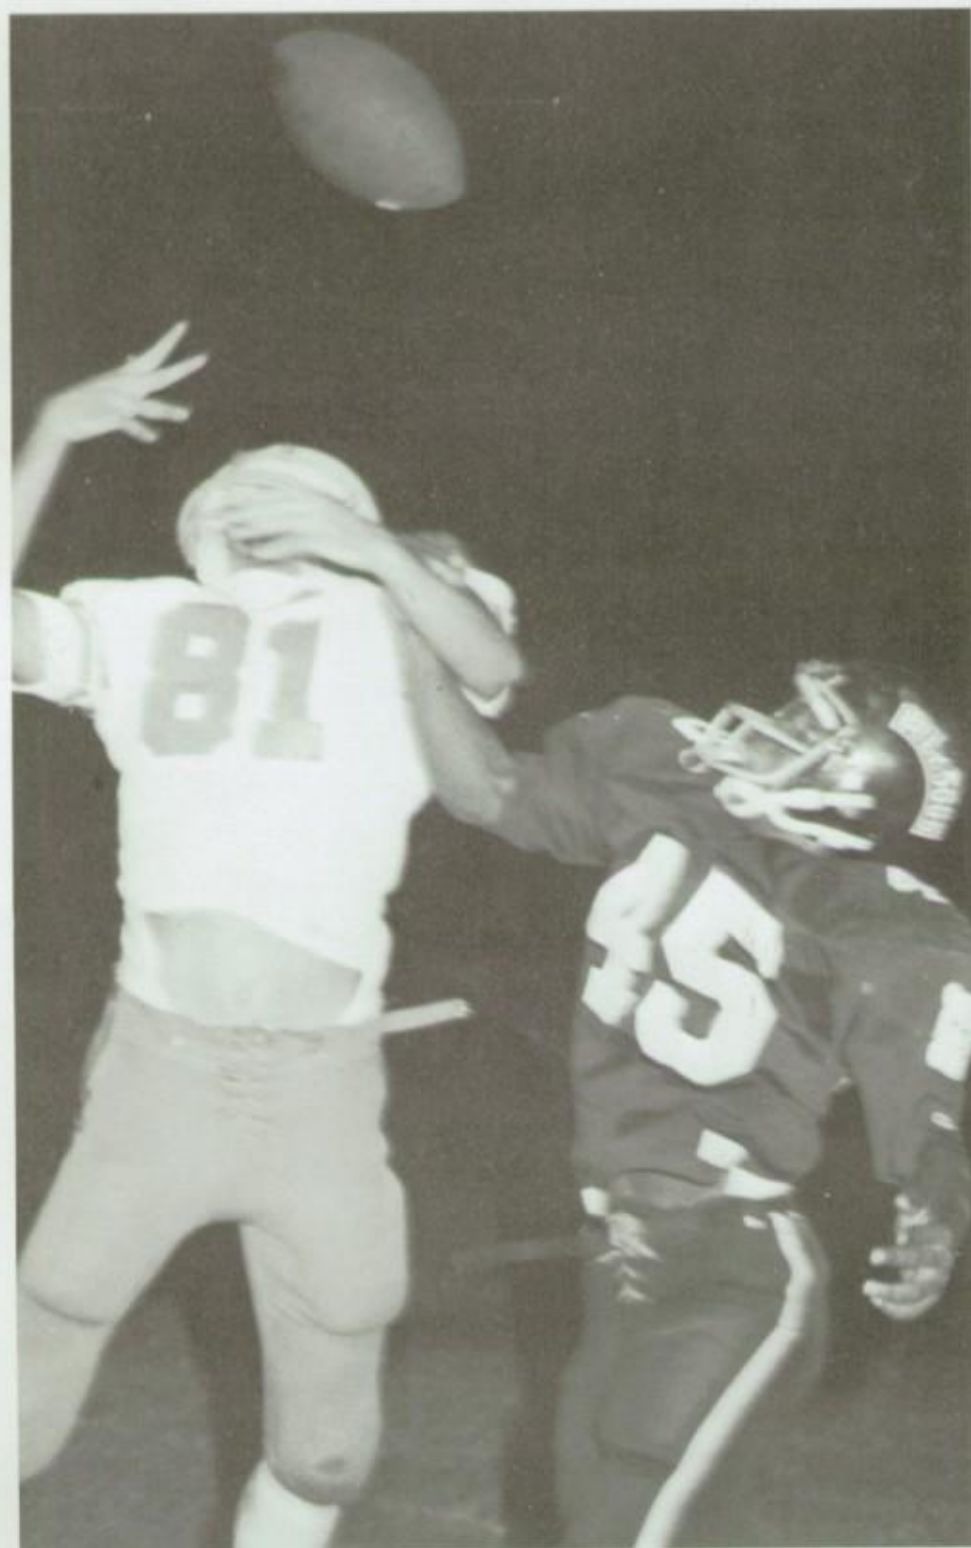

The 1984-85 Football season started off with a bang on September 7, with each game bringing more thrills than the last.

Who could ever forget the homecoming game when the first two kickoffs were returned with touchdowns, or Buster the Bulldog choking a Vinita Hornet in the center of the field, or the police escorting the team from the high school to the field before the Coweta game?

The Bulldogs were never beaten by more than one touchdown. They made it to the playoffs, but were defeated in the first round by the Spiro Bulldogs. They finished 5-5 for the regular season and were district runners-up. 🐾

Raindrops Keep Falling on My Crown

During the afternoon of October fifth, the football players as in previous years were honored with the annual Homecoming Parade. This is where the excitement of the football queen and her court began. Because of the constant rain that day, the girls wore street length dresses instead of their formal gowns in the parade.

Finally, the skies closed and the coronation was held on Odom Field as planned.

The 1984-85 Football King was Bryan Burrows and the Queen was Lana Cheatham. Their court consisted of Senior Rana Akard escorted by Glen Teel; Juniors Jennifer Humphries escorted by Rick Moore and also Kelly Moore escorted by Chris Dyer; Sophomore Heather Fleming escorted by Roger Drake.

Children assisting in the coronation were Angie Harris and Jason Roberts.

Ups 'N Downs

This year was a year of ups and downs for the Junior High Football Teams.

Excitement filled the air when the 8th Grade defeated Pryor and Tahlequah.

Suspense was everywhere when the 9th Grade went into triple overtime to score the winning points against Ft. Gibson.

They lost a few games, too, but they tried their hardest and did their best.

Three of the 9th Grade players were moved to the high school team. Robby Bruce, Jamie Blandon, and Gary Caffey were all good enough players to be recruited to play ball with the big boys.

The coaches that led the 8th and 9th Grade boys were, 8th-Coach Pryor and Coach Harlow, 9th-Coach Penquite and Coach Day.

► Kevin Richmond struggles to gain position with his Stillwell opponent.

Wrestlers Move Up

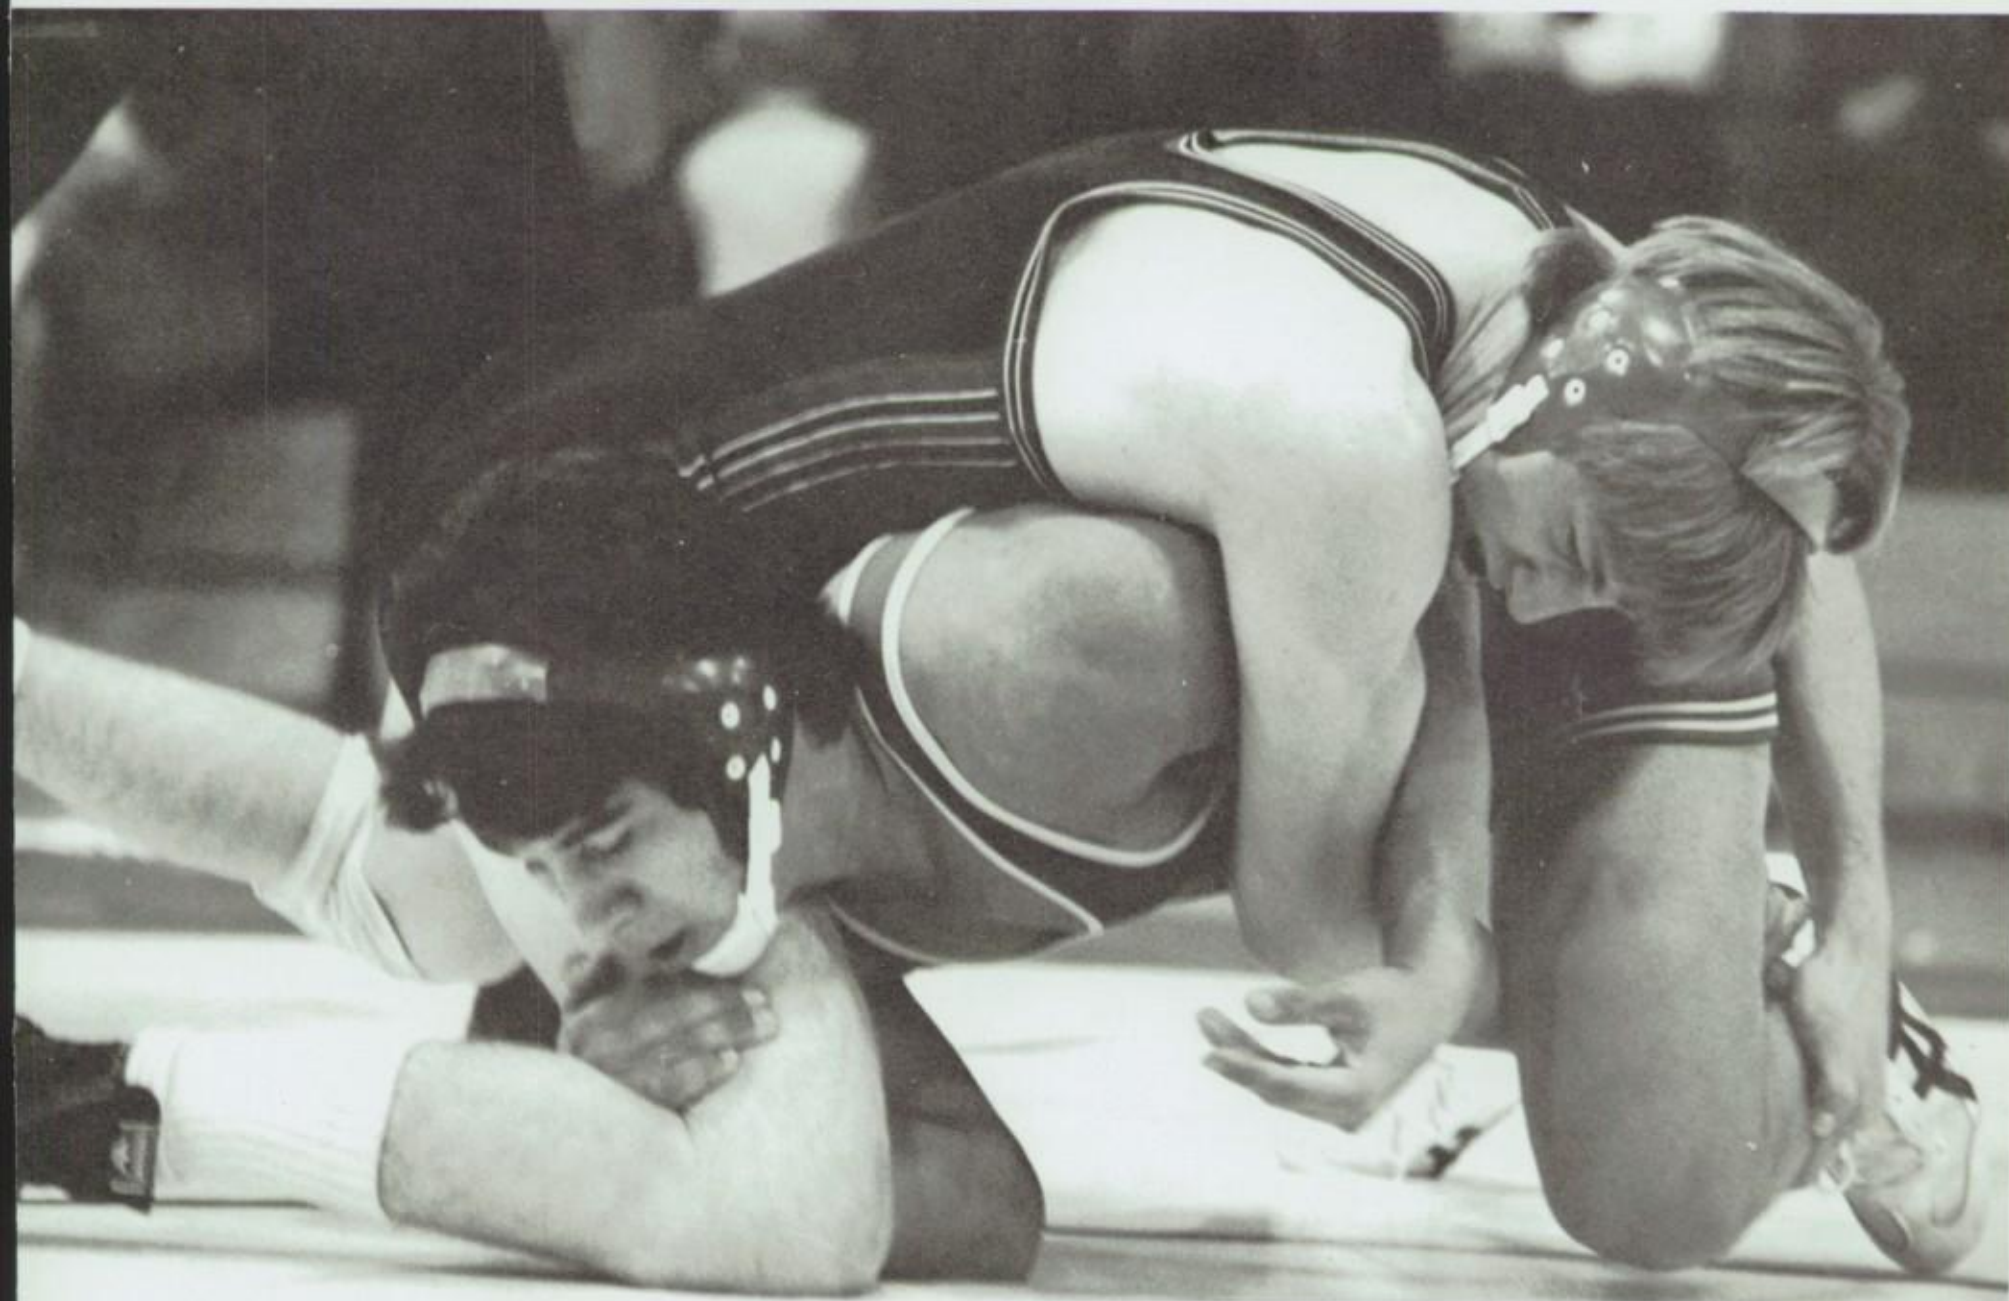

This year the wrestlers had a surprise when the season began. Instead of being in class 2a, they were moved up to class 3a.

The 1985 wrestlers had a record of 10 and 7. They came in 3rd place at the Wagoner Tournament and they came in 3rd place at the Conference Tournament.

At the Conference Tournament, Wagoner had two champs. In the 130 lb. weight division Roger Drake came in 1st place. In the 108 lb. weight division John Elsey was the champ.

Wagoner had a champ at the Skiatook Tournament also. Cooper Day at 157 lbs. won 1st place.

Wagoner was lucky enough to have four Grapplers that won over twenty matches. They were: Roger Drake, Cooper Day, John Elsey, and Rodney Blair. 🐾

▲ The Senior wrestlers are: Kevin Boyd, Scott Burks, Lance Lancaster, Cooper Day, and Bobby Kubistek.

Snow Rolls Out White Carpet for Queen

Inside the gym was a blur of excitement and gorgeous maroon, black, and white dresses, while outside it was sleeting and snowing. This was January 29, the day wrestling Queen Holly Hamilton was crowned by Captain Kevin Boyd. The coronation took place only after the usual hustle and bustle of normal last minute chaos.

Wrestling Queen was Holly Hamilton escorted by Captain Kevin Boyd. Her court consisted of First Attendant Beth McConnell escorted by Cooper Day, Second Attendant Kathy Cowden escorted by Scott Burks, and Third Attendant Shannon Peters escorted by Lance Lancaster. The children assisting in the coronation were Erin Esery escorted by Sam Adams.

The moment the girls remembered most was sitting on the throne while their dresses got wet from the water dripping off of their flowers. 🐾

Beat 'Em Bust 'Em That's Our Custom

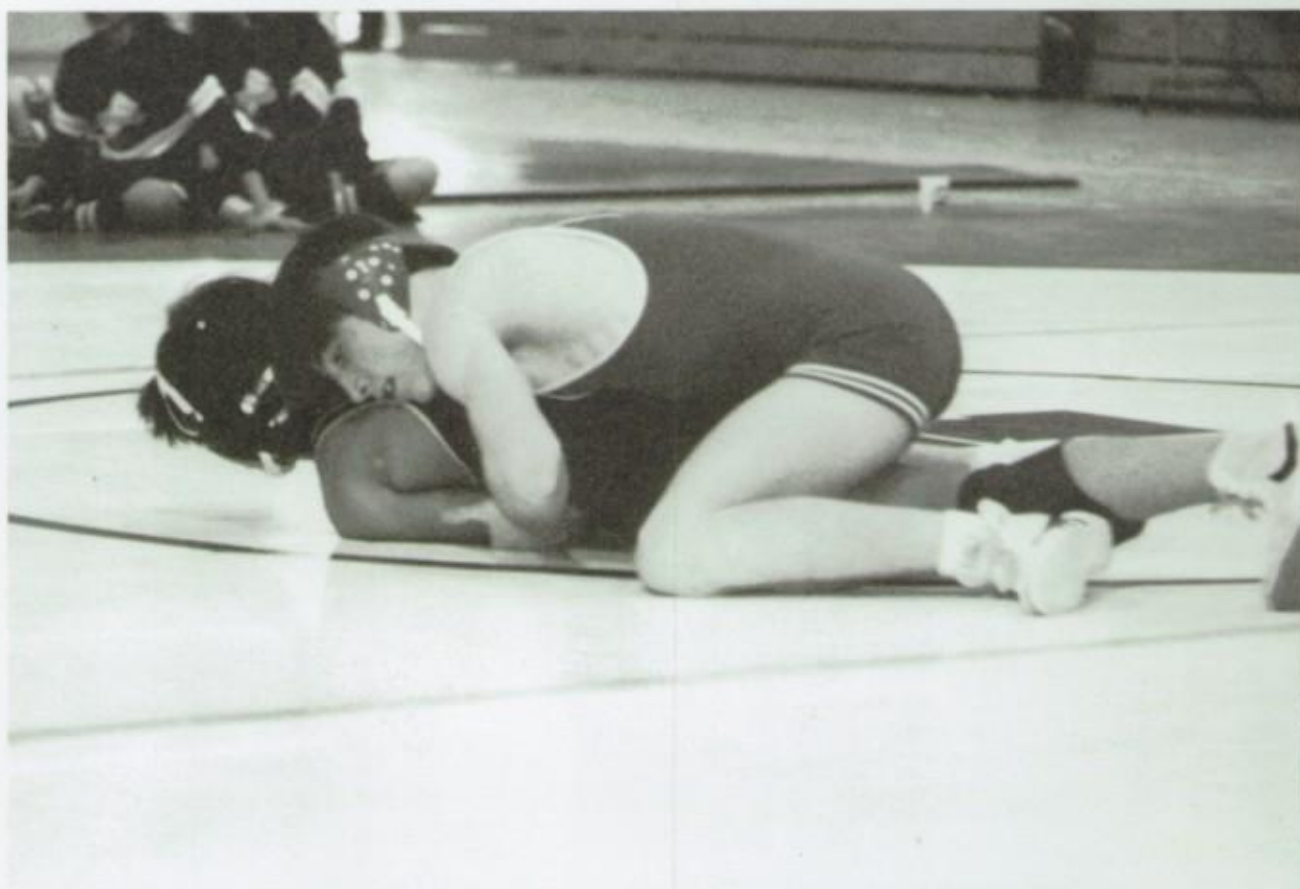

The junior high wrestlers had an outstanding season. They won first place team trophies at the Jay and Maverick tournaments and a second place trophy at the Skiatook tournament. The team worked well throughout the season. Two wrestlers even placed at state.

The wrestlers suffered mat burns, and they had to follow strict diets to be sure to make weight at the time of a match.

The J.H. wrestlers had fun times, too. They traveled to Oklahoma City for a tournament and stayed in luxury at the Holidome. They enjoyed swimming in the indoor pool and relaxing in the spa.

Roaring on to State

The first game of the season came along with the first snow of the winter. The outstanding varsity boys team ended their season with twenty-three wins and seven losses.

Preceding their journey to the state playoffs, the Bulldogs acquired the titles of District Champions, Regional Consolation Champions, and Area Consolation Champions.

In the first round of play at State, the Bulldogs defeated Oklahoma City McGuinness. In the second round they lost to the team that eventually became the state champions.

This group of boys placed first at the Pryor tournament bringing home a huge trophy as an award for their hard work and dedication.

The senior members of the team were Stevie Clayton, M. T. Francis, Curtis Hill, Wallace Keys, Lenny Williams, and Olli Winzer. Curtis Hill ended the regular season with fifteen dunks bringing the crowd to its feet with a roar every time.

► M. T. Francis is definitely filled with determination.

▼ Stevie Clayton shoots a technical free throw and hopes for the best.

► Lenny Williams struggles to get through the crowd of opposing players and head for the basket.

Driving It Down the Court

Cindy Meyer, the outstanding girls basketball player worked hard for her title. She made forty points out of the fifty-eight scored in one game by a single person in the Pryor Tournament. Cindy wasn't the only one that worked hard though.

This was a long, hard season for all the girls on the basketball team. They drilled to the sound of Coach Warren's voice, practicing everything over and over until they performed it right. They took joy in being a team and in the excitement of playing whether they won or lost. And that is what sportsmanship is all about! 🐾

Crowds View Carol's Coronation

Before a crowded gym on February 9, Sophomore Carol Givens was crowned queen by King Wallace Keys.

Her court consisted of senior attendant Cindy Meyer escorted by M. T. Francis, junior attendant Donetta Gibbs escorted by Alonzo Roberson, and sophomore attendant Janie Hardin escorted by Mark Myers. The children assisting in the coronation were Melody Robinson escorted by Donald (Peanut) McLunkins, Jr.

The cold weather turned relatively warm on the night of the coronation — a partial explanation of the large crowd that night. These fans saw the coronation after the junior varsity game.

Later, the varsity boys "dunked" the Stillwell team for another win on their great record. Queen Givens and her court of ladies were certainly proud of their "gentlemen." 🐾

Good Season for Jr. High Basketball

The 8th and 9th Grade boys played well this season.

The 8th Grade beat Okay and Hilldale. The 9th grade won against Broken Arrow, Okay, and Tahlequah. They finished with a record of 7 wins and 9 losses.

On the 9th Grade team eight people were capable of starting. The coach had a strong supply of guards and forwards to choose from.

On the 8th Grade team there were many players to choose from also. The average number of players per game on the 8th Grade team was twelve.

The coaches of the 8th and 9th Grade teams were 8th Grade — Ricky Bryant, 9th Grade — Mike Day. 🐾

Girls Show Ambition

Eighth grade is the first year for girls to play basketball. It's one thing to develop skills that make a good basketball player, but it is an entirely different kind of thing to learn how to work together as a team. So, the girls had to learn it all at once. It wasn't easy.

The Freshman Girls Basketball team completed a step in their ladder when they won second place in the Muskogee West Tournament and brought home a trophy. Their goal was to bring home a trophy from every tournament.

Opponents like Tahlequah, Okay and, of course, Coweta gave them a challenging time.

► Leslie Rosson outjumps her opponent.

▼ Barbie Hall takes the throw-in.

Bottom Row: Kim Moore, Kristy Dabson, Kiersten Crawford, Lorraine Gibbs, Tarra Walker, Laura Stephens, Jill Carver, and Connie Self. Row Two: Barbie Hall, Heidi Stransell, Jamie Hutchens, Laurel Rosson, Leslie Rosson, Janet Jones, and Millie Jones.

◀ Bottom Row: Lois Turley, Kwanna McNack, Erin McCormick, Julie Hardin, Amy Willfong, Farrah Red Eagle, Coleen Crowe, Darla Bryant, Sherry Hunt, Yvonne Jackson, and Johnnie Gerstle. Row Two: Coach Warren, Kathy Sridham, Missy Hughes, Lori Clayton, Kim Smiles, Shelly Ellis, Ginger Noetzel, Belynda Clayton, Donna Risor, Kim Dalton, and Angie Burcher.

◀▲ The Lady Bulldogs in control of the ball.

◀ Coach Warren calls the girls for a conference.

Lady Bulldogs Swing Into Action

Winning isn't everything — it's how you play the game and the sportsmanship involved.

Above all the WHS girls softball team had an enjoyable season together and had a "ball" of fun.

Diane Lightfoot won all-tournament left fielder and hit a homerun over the centerfield fence at the Jay tournament.

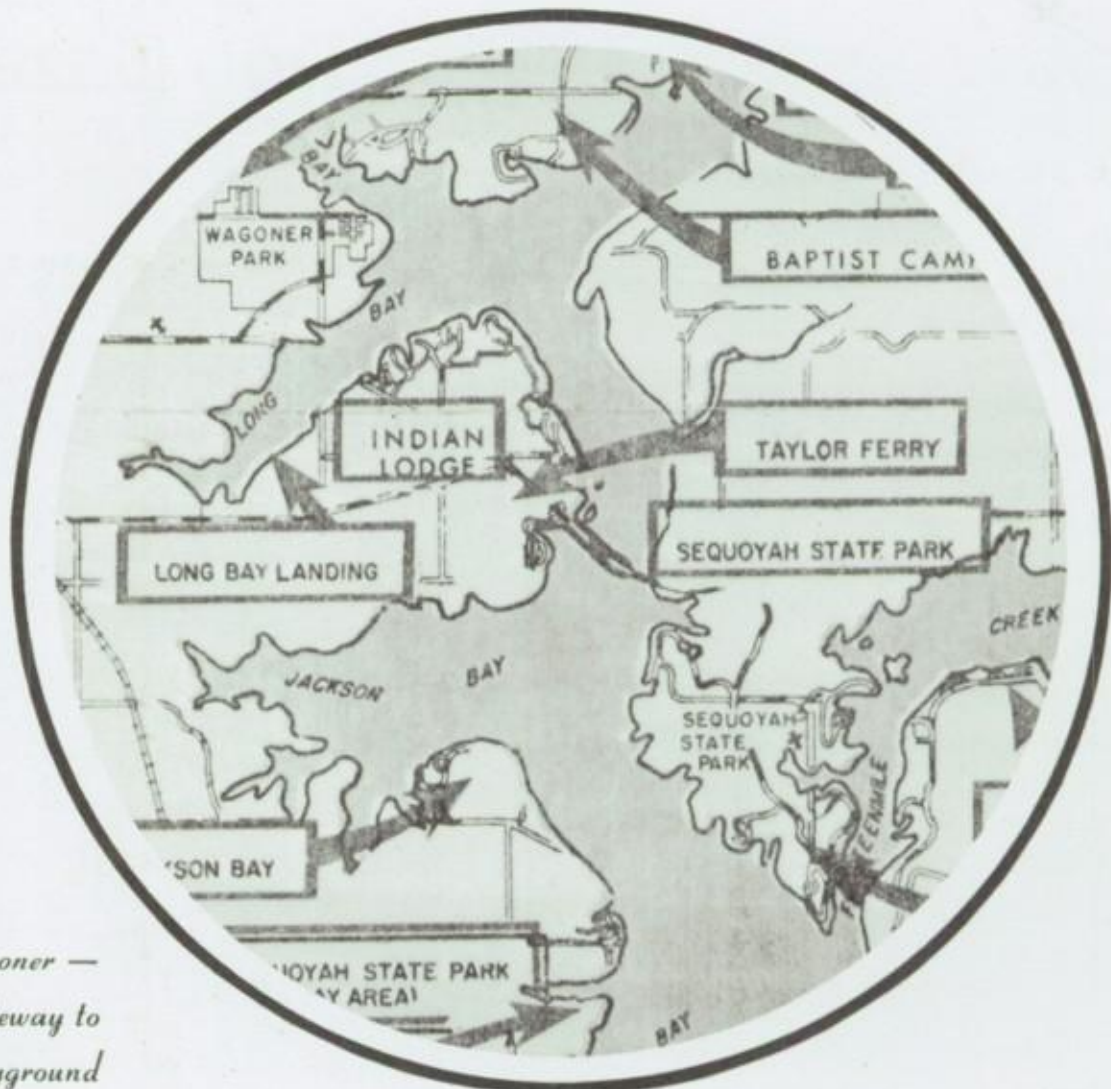

The girls began practicing two weeks before the opening of school and the season lasted until late October. 🐾

► Becky Blair and Cindy Meyer spend some time warming up before a game.

► One more strike against Janie Hardin, but the next one might be a homerun for the Lady Bulldogs.

The blackboards are all erased, the ping-pong balls are silent and in a mixture of emotions the students leave the buildings for the last time.

And where are they going? . . .

... To the lake,
of course!

To a pretty girl I like a lot, See you next year.

to a nice girl
Hi! from Scott

Kim,
You're a Sweet
and Pretty girl.
Wished I knew you better and longer.
I hope that you accomplish every thing you want in life. Hope that I see you more this summer.

I cannot rest from travel;
I will drink life to the lees.
All times I have enjoyed greatly,
have suffered greatly,
both with those that loved me,
and alone . . .

Kim

Well I guess I will use this whole piece of paper to sign this yearbook. It is been a blast knowing you especially at work. Even though we had Matt butting in when we were talking, it was fun. I am glad you were there when I broke my finger even though it wasn't your fault. Thanks for being there when I needed you. Have fun this summer. try to stay out of trouble, this summer. Good luck with what you want in life. I hope you and who ever get married and live happy. Hope to see you.
